

Salmon keeps your immune system running!

It contains B12, which is necessary for your body to make DNA and red blood cells. Also, B12 deficiency leads to a lack of white blood cells and certain T cells, which means your body can't respond as well to infection! Also, omega-3s help to combat inflammation by reducing the number of T cells, meaning they mediate your immune response.

